America, not excepting Dickey Pearce, Joe Start and others of the famous Athletics of Brooklyn, Anson began with Marshalltown (Ia.) club in 1887 as catcher. He first became popular two years later as catcher and third baseman of the Forest City of Rochester, Ill. Playing with him on that team were A. G. Spalding, Ross Barnes, now a member of the Chicago Board of Trade; Scott Helgeson and "Bobby" Addy, The Forest City's one of the crack teams of the country.

In 1871 Anson went to the Philadelphia Athletics and played third base. He went with Spalding and Barnes to the Chicago team in 1876 and began playing first base. He was a power at the bat, and won the league championship many times for Chicago. Anson won fame for his ability in developing young players or "cooks," selling them for good prices after they had become stars. He has not been big enough for first base for several years and was particularly weak on low balls. He has been going behind the bat for two seasons, and now he is out of that. Fifteen years is a long base ball life for a good player. When Anson began the popular favorite, George W. Hart and George Wright, Dickey Pearce, Dave Force, Joe Start, Jim White, Tip Pike, Dave Bagler, Jack Hatfield and Ferguson. Anson has seen famous players like John Burdock, Harry Stovey, the Irish win brothers, Comiskey, Pete Browning, Fred Pfeffer, Mike Kelly, Ed Hanlon, Johnnie Peters and Ed. Williamson come and go. The only man who has a record approaching Anson's is Jimmy Galvin, the famous pitcher. He began pitching in St. Louis in 1869 and occupied the box continuously for more than twenty-two years. This is a wonderful record, when the average life of a pitcher is about five years. Galvin is a grandfather.

TODAY

Boys' Suits at About Half Price.

$1.98 AND $2.48

THIS is the story of some Boys' Suits that are REAL Bargains.

Our statements are mild, and put before you in plain, simple talk—no brag, no bluster, no exaggeration.

Our methods are pretty well known—whatever we say is so, and you can well believe it.

We have a lot of Boys' All Wool Suits, of this season's make, in broken sizes, 8 to 16 years, in all about 194 Suits.

In fact, they were among our best sellers, and have been the choice of the stock. Only one, two, or perhaps three of each pattern are left now. We divide them into two lots—those sold from $2.50 to $3.50 we have marked $1.98. The others, from $3.00 to $4.50, are marked $2.48.

You will find them in the Boys' Department on separate tables, in piles by sizes, easy to choose from.

Perhaps this is not as great a bargain as you can find ON PAPER, some of which are highly colored, but we prefer to leave some of the surprise until you see the Suits. Then we know what the result will be.

Our windows, fronting about 150 feet, the largest in this part of the State, affords a treat to a legion of shoppers, and indicates our average class of goods, as well as a revelation in popular prices.

In the Lackawanna avenue window we are showing some remarkable values in Men's All Wool Suits at the rare prices of $6.98 AND $9.98.
